

So awareness and stop these are like two brothers and sisters, they're so closely related to each other. We haven't been able to stop our thinking. Buddhism, and many cultivators, including some of your fellow students, have pointed out that thinking is not like a stream of thinking. It is like a waterfall. You look at a waterfall and you just see water coming down. It's like a curtain of water.

Master Nan